2022 IPA PROFESSIONAL AWARDS

The Iowa Pharmacy Association takes great pride in recognizing individuals for their contributions of leadership, patient care, professional involvement and public service. The following awards, presented during IPA’s 2022 Annual Meeting in Cedar Rapids, serve to capture Iowa pharmacy’s spirit of service and its culture of professionalism. Each recipient is permanently recognized on a master plaque for their respective award at IPA Headquarters.

The 2021 Bowl of Hygeia recipient, recognized during the 2021 virtual IPA Annual Meeting, is an integral member of his community, showing great service to the city of Indianola for decades. Steven (Steve) Sayler graduated from Drake University College of Pharmacy in 1978 and has worked as a pharmacist in Indianola ever since. In 1999, he began working for Hy-Vee Pharmacy where he continues to practice. Community members recognize Sayler’s efforts, going above and beyond to advocate for his patients and serve as an essential health care provider in town. In 2019, Indianola gave back and awarded Sayler with the Chamber of Commerce’s Employee of the Year award.

In addition to pharmacy, Sayler leads as a civic servant in countless ways. For over thirty-five years, Sayler has been involved with the athletic department at Simpson College, volunteering as an official scorekeeper for men’s and women’s basketball, running concession stands, and more. Women’s basketball coach Brian Niemuth says Sayler is a huge asset and the team “would be in trouble without him!” Despite never attending Simpson himself, Sayler also chaired the athletic booster club for five years. Through these relationships, he was asked to assist with summer camps and provide athletic training curriculum on pharmacy topics. Collectively, these efforts earned him the college’s Dick Buxton Award in 2002.

Alongside a close group of friends, Sayler helped establish the Dobber’s Up Foundation in honor of his friend, Dan, who was diagnosed with ALS. The Dobber’s Up Foundation raised money for Dan’s family and provided several experiences for him, including competing in the Hy-Vee Triathlon. The group of friends trained for months to ensure Dan, who was in a wheelchair, would cross the finish line. Since Dan’s death in 2009, the Dobber’s Up Foundation has provided funds for student scholarships and families in the community.

Most recently, Sayler served on the economic development committee that created the budget to bring a YMCA to Indianola, and he continues to serve on the YMCA Board of Managers. Although Sayler would say “it’s all part of the job,” the Iowa Pharmacy Association (IPA) and Indianola community recognize his selfless service. As one nominator put it, “Steve Sayler is absolutely the reason the Bowl of Hygeia Award was created.”

ABOUT THE AWARD
One of the most prestigious awards in the pharmacy profession, the Bowl of Hygeia recognizes a pharmacist who has demonstrated a sustained commitment to community service. The award is part of a national awards program co-sponsored by the National Alliance of State Pharmacy Associations (NASPA) and the American Pharmacists Association (APhA) with one recipient chosen from each state every year. Iowa’s recipient is chosen by a committee of civic leaders from across the state, and the selection is unknown until the evening of the IPA Awards Banquet.

DISTINGUISHED PHARMACIST

Donald Letendre, PharmD, FASHP
Iowa City, IA

Donald Letendre serves as Dean and Professor of the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy, as well as Chairman of the Board for University of Iowa Pharmaceuticals (UIP). Following completion of his Doctorate in Pharmacy and clinical residency at the University of Kentucky, Dean Letendre served as Assistant Director and Assistant Professor of Pharmacy at the University of Kansas Medical Center and spent nearly two decades on the senior staff of ASHP. Previously, Dean Letendre also served as Dean and Professor at the University of Rhode Island College of Pharmacy and Executive Secretary of the Rhode Island State Crime Laboratory Commission.

Dean Letendre has been at the vanguard of change in healthcare throughout his career. He actively lead the development and implementation of standards that have helped influence the implementation of safe medication distribution and use practices, as well as direct patient care services in hundreds of hospitals and health-systems throughout North America. Moreover, his efforts have helped shape pharmacy residency and technician training programs worldwide.

Among his many awards and recognitions, Dean Letendre is the recipient of the University of Kentucky’s prestigious Paul F. Parker Lecture Award (1998), Massachusetts College of Pharmacy’s Outstanding Alumni Achievement Award (1999), APhA-ASP Outstanding Dean Award (2020), and University of Kentucky College of Pharmacy Hall of Distinguished Alumni (2020). Dean Letendre has provided countless contributions to the advancement of pharmacy practice in Iowa, nationwide and across the globe. He is extremely active within IPA and is known by colleagues as “a tireless worker and advocate for the pharmacy profession.”

ABOUT THE AWARD
The Robert G. Gibbs Distinguished Pharmacist Award recognizes an Iowa pharmacist for outstanding contributions to the pharmacy profession and IPA. This award was established in 1979 in honor of IPA’s past Executive Officer, Robert G. Gibbs, who served the association from 1959-1979 and is the highest recognition given to a pharmacist by IPA. In years when the award is presented, a $500 scholarship grant is awarded to an Iowa-based college of pharmacy.

Sharon Cashman earned her Bachelor of Pharmacy degree from the University of Iowa. For nearly thirty years, Cashman worked for Waverly Health Center, retiring as Director of Pharmacy Services in 2019. In her career, she helped to establish a PGY1 residency program with the Northeast Iowa Family Practice Center, served as adjunct faculty for the University of Iowa, and precepted countless IPPE students and residents.

In Waverly, Cashman was highly engaged in her community, serving as a chairperson of Waverly Parks and Recreation and co-founding the Head Over Wheels bicycle safety program. She also helped to secure a large grant for the Waverly Amphitheater in 2014.

Although retired, Cashman stays active in Iowa Pharmacy through her participation on the Board as Honorary President, Black Hawk/Bremer County Pharmacy Association, IPA Legislative Committee, and IPA House of Delegates. She continues to support the IPA Foundation and student pharmacists through the STEP, CYCLE, SWING fundraiser, after participating as an avid RAGBRAI rider for many years. Previously, Cashman served on IPA’s Education Advisory Committee, Medicaid/PBP Advisory Committee, RAGBRAI Planning Committee, and the IPA Board of Trustees. In 2019, Cashman was presented with IPA’s Health-System Pharmacist of the Year Award.

During the pandemic, Cashman spent her time biking and hiking in New Mexico. She has rekindled her love of painting, leaving a painted stone at the top of a hike or along a bike trail for others to find. Cashman recently took on a new role as grandma and is looking forward to the weddings of her youngest daughter and son in 2023.

ABOUT THE AWARD

Mylo Wells graduated from the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy in 2018 and opened Wells Hometown Drug in Bloomfield that December, creating a “thriving practice” in an underserved area. A few years later in January of 2022, Wells opened a second pharmacy in Keosauqua. Both locations are part of the CPESN-Iowa network and focus their efforts on providing clinical services to the rural population of southeast Iowa.

Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, Wells has served as an informed voice, speaking with many news outlets about COVID-19 testing, vaccine availability and more. In partnership with CPESN and public health, Wells was part of the state’s leading vaccination efforts in the early stages of vaccine roll-out, hosting several mass vaccination clinics and helping vaccinate 1,300 JBS workers in Ottumwa. In recent news, Wells was recognized for his efforts to improve accessibility for the nearby Amish community, offering places to tie-up horses and buggies at his pharmacy.

This year, Wells received Cardinal Health’s Future Ready Pharmacist of the Year Award. He is also an active member of IPA, NCPA and the Iowa Medicaid P&T Committee. Currently, Wells resides in his hometown of Bloomfield with his wife, Jackie, and son, Freddie.

His nominators say Wells “is truly the future of pharmacy,” continuously making a difference in his community and improving patient care. Colleagues are amazed by all he has already accomplished. “We need more Mylo’s in community pharmacy,” one nominator wrote, “especially in rural Iowa.”

ABOUT THE AWARD
The Distinguished Young Pharmacist of the Year Award recognizes a pharmacist within their first ten years of practice for their involvement and dedication to the pharmacy profession. The award was created in 1987 to encourage young pharmacists’ participation in association and community activities and is part of a national awards program cosponsored by Pharmacists Mutual and state associations.

Deanna McDanel is a Clinical Pharmacy Specialist in Ambulatory Care at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics (UIHC). In addition, she serves as a Clinical Associate Professor at the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy. A graduate of the University of Iowa, Dr. McDanel completed a Specialized Residency in Primary Care at UIHC.

Over the past twenty years, Dr. McDanel has served as a clinician in the Allergy/Immunology and Anticoagulation clinics. In 2013, a formalized Drug Allergy Clinic was created and later expanded to offer pharmacist/physician co-scheduled appointments for patients to see Dr. McDanel with Dr. Amy Dowden, a board-certified allergy/immunologist. In addition to her clinical roles, Dr. McDanel serves as the UIHC PGY2 Ambulatory Care Residency Program Director, is board certified in pharmacotherapy and ambulatory care pharmacy, and has served as a preceptor for hundreds of students and residents. She has received honors for her precepting, teaching and service.

Dr. McDanel strives to advance her practice through scholarly work and professional presentations. She also maintains active membership in a number of pharmacy organizations and serves in leadership positions at all levels. Dr. McDanel has been a proud member of IPA since 2001 and is currently serving as Speaker of the House. She has served on countless IPA committees and is also a member of the American Academy of Allergy, Asthma & Immunology’s (AAAAI) Adverse Reactions to Drugs, Biologics & Latex Committee.

Dr. McDanel’s nominators admire her passion and dedication to improving the health of Iowans. Her work in the Drug Allergy Clinic is truly unique and “a great example of her long record of professional service to others.”

ABOUT THE AWARD
The Excellence in Innovation Award recognizes pharmacists who have demonstrated significant innovation in their respective practices. The award was developed by the National Alliance of State Pharmacy Associations (NASPA) and is funded by Upsher-Smith Laboratories, Inc.
HEALTH-SYSTEM PHARMACIST

Ashley Cook, PharmD, BCCCP
Adel, IA

Ashley Cook is the Critical Care Pharmacy Specialist at MercyOne Des Moines. Cook grew up in Watertown, South Dakota and completed her pharmacy education at South Dakota State University in 2011. After pharmacy school, she completed a pharmacy residency at MercyOne Des Moines and has been a pharmacist there ever since.

In her current role, Cook staffs in all critical care areas and the Emergency Department. She also serves as a preceptor for PGY1 and PGY2 EM residents and Drake APPE students. Cook is involved in protocol and power plan development, policy updates, multidisciplinary education, quality improvement/MUE projects, and also co-chairs the P&T committee.

Cook is passionate about pharmacist advancement and ensuring pharmacists have a role at bedside as an integral part of the interdisciplinary care team. In 2021, she developed a new model for critical care pharmacists that added medication administration and drip titration to a pharmacist’s task list to assist nurses during the pandemic and staffing shortages. Colleagues acknowledge Cook’s instrumental role “in developing and revising policies to improve pharmacy department efficiency and medication safety.”

Cook is an active member of IPA, serving on various committees. She lives in the suburbs of Des Moines with her husband, Brad, and pet, Lucy. Together, they house teenage players for the Des Moines Buccaneers USIH hockey team each year. In her free time, Cook enjoys playing hockey, golfing, gardening and playing the piano. She and Brad love hiking, with some of the most memorable hikes being a “fourteener” in Colorado, Angels Landing in Utah, and Flat Iron in Arizona.

ABOUT THE AWARD

The Health-System Pharmacist of the Year Award is a national awards program that recognizes a health-system pharmacist who demonstrates service to the pharmacy profession, specifically hospital pharmacy; contributions to pharmacy programs; cooperation with the entire healthcare team; and service to the community.
PATIENT CARE PARTNER

Daniel P. Runde, MD, MME
Iowa City, IA

Dr. Daniel Runde is a Clinical Professor in the Department of Emergency Medicine at UIHC, where he serves as Vice Chair of Education for the Emergency Medicine Residency Program and as Director of the Emergency Medicine Medical Education Fellowship Program. Within the College of Medicine, Dr. Runde has spent the past eight years serving as Course Director for the second semester of the Clinical and Professional Skills Strand and as a Medical Co-Director of the student-run Mobile Clinic project. Through the Mobile Clinic, he collaborates with co-director Dr. Jeanine Abrons, PharmD, and student pharmacists to achieve the mission of providing access to healthcare for the underserved areas of Iowa City. This team worked closely with public health to ensure COVID-19 vaccines were allocated and distributed to patients in Johnson County.

Dr. Runde graduated from the University of Notre Dame with a degree in Philosophy before receiving his M.D. from the University of Iowa College of Medicine. He completed his residency training in Emergency Medicine at Columbia University’s St. Luke’s Roosevelt Hospital in New York and a Fellowship in Medical Education at Harbor-UCLA and the David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA. He has received multiple “Teacher of the Year” awards within his department, as well as recognition from the Council of Emergency Medicine Directors Academic Assembly.

Dr. Runde is a proud Cedar Rapids native and is smitten by his partner, Katie, and two children, Alice and Jane. His nominators state, “Dr. Runde’s creativity and passion to improve patient care through collaboration with other healthcare professionals represents what it truly means to be a Patient Care Partner.”

ABOUT THE AWARD

The Patient Care Partner Award is presented to a physician, medical practice, clinic or other healthcare provider who has developed a patient care program that works cooperatively with patients and pharmacists to optimize care. With an emphasis on collaboration, the award recognizes an innovative and creative practice that demonstrates an enhanced level of care in an Iowa community and brings healthcare providers together to better serve their patients.
Molly Nelson is a fourth-year student pharmacist at Drake University College of Pharmacy & Health Sciences. According to Nelson, she has always known she wanted to help people and connect patients to the care they need. Throughout pharmacy school, Nelson has thrown herself into professional development opportunities, holding positions in the APhA-ASP chapter at Drake, the Student College of Clinical Pharmacy (SCCP), and assisting with research by several professors. Her nominator says Nelson works “non-stop in a variety of professional organizations and committees.”

During the 2022 Legislative Session, Nelson had an internship at the Iowa State Capitol that allowed her to work with lobbyists and legislators alike to help push pharmacy priorities forward. Following graduation, Nelson hopes to go on to complete a residency.

Jose Rodriguez is a fourth-year student pharmacist at the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy. Originally from the suburbs of Chicago, Rodriguez is passionate about pharmacy, providing quality patient care, and using his voice to help address issues impacting the profession. He currently works for NuCarA Pharmacy and serves as the University of Iowa student pharmacist representative on the IPA Board of Trustees.

In his free time, Rodriguez enjoys fishing, hunting, golfing, and watching football. He appreciates the “behind the scenes” work in healthcare and ultimately plans to work in the industry or management space. According to his nominator, Rodriguez is a “highly engaged leader” who “continues to leave his legacy.”

Since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic in early 2020, Iowa pharmacy professionals have heroically served their communities on the frontlines, demonstrating great courage, resilience and perseverance. The past two years have undoubtedly been history in the making, both for our world and our profession. Each and every Iowa pharmacist, pharmacy technician, student pharmacist, staff member and volunteer has made a difference in helping save lives.

For these reasons, the Iowa Pharmacy Association presents its 2022 Individual Appreciation Award to all of YOU, the IPA membership! Your efforts during each step of the pandemic timeline – from keeping your doors open, navigating drug shortages, educating the public, providing testing, and administering vaccines all the way to prescribing treatment – have been at the forefront of public health. Your long days, weekends, hardships and triumphs have brought us closer to a sense of normalcy and safety that we’ve long yearned for.

The role of the pharmacy profession will only continue to grow and advance, as IPA members have consistently proven their knowledge and skills as trusted healthcare providers throughout the pandemic. IPA has been honored to serve and advocate for each of you and the profession at large, and we will continue to do so while looking toward the future.
CEimpact is a healthcare education company that connects learning to practice. The organization was founded as the Collaborative Education Institute (CEI) in 2006 as a partnership between the Iowa Pharmacy Association (IPA), Drake University College of Pharmacy & Health Sciences, and the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy. From 2006-2017, CEI organically grew from an ACPE-accredited continuing education (CE) provider for pharmacists in Iowa to a CE provider for pharmacists, pharmacy technicians, and physicians across the country.

Milestones during that time include serving as one of the first providers to expand immunization training, which began with IPA in 1999, partnering with colleges and schools of pharmacy to provide preceptor development education, transitioning CE from in-person to online education, developing content for large grants such as the CDC’s “Team Up, Pressure Down” initiative and quality measure education for the Pharmacy Quality Alliance (PQA). In addition, CEI was the driving force behind the 5-State CPD Pilot Project and contributed education research to publications and presentations both nationally and internationally.

Since purchasing CEI in 2017, Jen Moulton and her team have led CEimpact to a national presence by doubling the team, building a learning management system tailored to healthcare professionals, and expanding their suite of innovative products and services to serve over 35,000 learners, one hundred clients, and 80 colleges of pharmacy.

CEimpact has partnered with IPA for the past fifteen years to bring quality CE to member pharmacists and pharmacy technicians in Iowa, and has served as a thought partner to deliver education in the most meaningful ways for members. Throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, CEimpact reacted quickly to meet the educational needs of pharmacy professionals regarding immunizations, test and treat services, and more. Most recently, CEimpact responded to the BPS request for proposals, alongside IPA and the National Alliance of State Pharmacy Associations (NASPA), to be a professional development program for the recertification of board-certified pharmacists.

CEimpact’s passion for continuing pharmacy education lies in advancing pharmacy practice on an individual level through professional development and leadership growth, as well as on a practice level through education and innovation. They enjoy doing this work through partners who believe in the same mission and vision for the profession, including IPA.

ABOUT THE AWARD
The Iowa Pharmacy Association Appreciation Award was created in 1988 to recognize individuals and corporations for their support of organized pharmacy in the state of Iowa.

PHARMACY TECHNICIAN

Jillisa Legg, CPhT
Beaman, IA

Jillisa Legg has worked for NuCara Pharmacies for twenty-two years, starting in the Long Term Care division and moving to retail full-time in 2009. Legg earned her CPhT credential in 2001 and, according to her colleagues, has been a vital member of the NuCara team since.

A natural leader, Legg has helped train many new telepharmacy technicians and runs the Conrad pharmacy herself when the pharmacist is off-site. Her nominators call her a “superwoman in and out of the pharmacy,” taking on every new project, making it her own, and ensuring it is successful. Legg is known for coming in early, staying late, traveling to other locations, and doing anything else needed to get things done. Her colleagues feel lucky to have such an “invaluable” team member. In addition, Legg was a driving force behind several successful COVID-19 vaccination clinics at NuCara, helping to organize the events and vaccinate patients.

Legg is an active member of IPA, previously serving on the Policy Committee on Public Affairs. She has received multiple awards, including OutcomesMTM’s Top Technician in 2018 and NuCara’s Employee of the Year in 2019. Legg is also immunization certified.

In her free time, Legg enjoys reading, going on beach vacations with family and friends, and attending her daughters’ numerous sporting events. She and her husband, Chad, have three daughters (15, 12, and 8). Legg says she loves learning new things and helping her customers at NuCara.

ABOUT THE AWARD
Since 1971, IPA has paid special tribute to pharmacists who have achieved the milestone of 50 years of professional practice and service to the people of Iowa. IPA is proud to honor these pharmacists for their dedication to the profession.
OBJECTIVES:
Antibiograms are an important tool for antimicrobial stewardship programs. While antibiograms are commonly available in hospitals, most institutions do not share them with the community, and outpatient healthcare providers will be unable to select empiric antimicrobials without considerable degree of uncertainty. While antibiograms are an important part of empiric antibiotic selection, it appears that many physicians have inadequate knowledge of this tool. The objective of this study was to determine healthcare providers’ perceptions of local antibiotic resistance and determine if a community antibiogram paired with education would improve ability to select appropriate empiric antibiotics using patient cases.

METHODS:
In 2018, pharmacists representing four hospital systems in Des Moines developed a community antibiogram using available bacterial resistance data. This combined antibiogram was made available publicly online. A Continuing Medical Education (CME) module was then created by the research team and administered by Des Moines University. This module reviewed current treatment guidelines for common infectious diseases that rely on local resistance patterns for antibiotic selection [urinary tract infections (UTIs), community-acquired pneumonia, sinusitis, diverticulitis]. Prescribers were invited to participate in a live online session in January 2021 or view the recorded session. Participants completed a 15-question pre-education survey which measured demographics, beliefs about local resistance patterns, and prescribing preferences in 4 sample cases. Then, participants viewed the presentation which included interaction with the antibiogramDSM website. Finally, participants took a post-education assessment which included 9 questions including 4 new cases and additional questions regarding confidence in completion of learning objectives.

RESULTS:
After 6 months, there were 34 total participants; 25 completed a post-education assessment. Only 11.8% of participants currently use an antibiogram and 38.2% had never used one. E. coli resistance rate ranges were correctly identified by 53.1% of participants for 3rd generation cephalosporins, 50% for nitrofurantoin, 28% for trimethoprim/sulfamethoxazole, and 25% for quinolones. S. pneumoniae resistance rate ranges were correctly identified by 61.3% of participants for 3rd generation cephalosporins, 33.3% for quinolones, 29% for penicillin, and 22.6% for macrolides. On the patient cases, correct response scores improved from 49% to 84% (P<0.001) with 76% of participants improving their score. Matched case comparisons improved for each disease: pneumonia (P=0.021), UTIs (P=0.002), sinusitis (P=0.063), and diverticulitis (P=0.013). A majority of participants felt they were confident or very confident at addressing each of the learning objectives.

CONCLUSION:
Baseline knowledge of local antibiotic resistance rates is poor among healthcare providers practicing in the community. This may result in inappropriate selection of empiric antibiotics. Education plus a community antibiogram is a useful tool to assist healthcare providers in selecting appropriate antibiotics using case-based questions. Larger studies should be conducted to determine impact on actual antibiotic prescribing in the community.

This award was presented at the 2021 virtual IPA Annual Meeting.
