Self-Deception and Objectification: Implications for Providing Care

Learning Objectives:
Upon successful completion of this knowledge-based course pharmacists and pharmacy technicians should be able to:
1. Describe how self-deception can lead to the distortion of how we see one’s self and others.
2. Describe how self-deception adversely affects our relationships with patients, co-workers and family.
3. Differentiate between the Responsive Way and the Resistant Way of Being and their effects on relationships.
4. List at least two ways to avoid self-deception and see people as people, not as objects.
